The Chief Umpire will follow the “Fair Play Code for Officials” as stated in the “Rules of Curling for Officiated Play” in the current official rule book.

Rules as outlined in the NWT Policy Manual will also apply. Rules as outlined in this meeting also make up the rules for this championship. It is the responsibility of all players and coaches to be familiar with the “Rules of Curling” as set out in the current CCA Official Rule Book as well as this document.

As a result of the current health pandemic and the Public Health Order, there will be special rules in place to ensure the competition is held in a safe manner. These rules have referenced information from NWT Public Health, Sport North, and Curling Canada, as well as best practices from other Member Associations. Specific requirements from each host club pertaining to their facility will also be included. See Section 5 for Covid Related Information.

Tips for Social Media (taken from Curling Canada competitor guide)

Unquestionably, the landscape has changed in terms of the ways that players, fans, and the media interact, and it's recognized that the various forms of social media represent a valuable opportunity for communication. Competitors are encouraged to embrace social media, as they present avenues to promote the game of curling as well as their own teams. However, there must be certain responsibilities attached to the use of these social media outlets.

Here are some guidelines:

- 1) Be aware of the fact that as high-profile athletes, you are in the spotlight, and not only yourself, but also your teams, families and Curling Canada. There is no on-off switch when it comes to this responsibility.
- 2) There is no such thing as "off the record" when it comes to communication via social media. Hitting the "return" button on a Tweet makes it part of the public record, and it can be distributed to thousands of people in just a few seconds. Avoid using social media when angry or consuming alcohol. In addition, during events it's recommended to avoid reading Twitter responses or Facebook posts to your team. Negative comments are intended to get a reaction. Responding to them achieves nothing. Avoiding them is the best idea. Ideally, have someone external to the team filtering the responses to prevent negative messages getting through.
- 3) Be smart about what is presented as a message. Take the high road when it comes to discussing events, officials, or opponents. Competitors help their sport and their team by presenting a positive, respectful image to those who read your message. Thanking fans, praising teammates and opponents are good ways to do this.
- 4) Competitors hurt the sport and hurt their teammates by sending out negative messages of their own, or by sharing/re-tweeting negative messages from other people. These can consist of criticism of opponents, teammates, officials, events, sponsors, facilities and playing conditions, or sexist, racist or homophobic slurs. This is a year-round consideration but be aware that if it happens during a championship event (national, world or any other event operated by Curling Canada), competitors can and will be fined for anything that Curling Canada deems bringing the sport, an event, or an event official into "disrepute". For more details, see the Players Fines section.
- 5) During championship events, competitors should be conscious of sponsors. They are responsible for the successful operation of our events, in addition to providing money that covers the costs of accommodation and travel for the players. Curling Canada asks you to respect those partnerships by:
 - 6) Not distributing messages that may be seen as critical of event sponsors
 - 7) Not distributing messages praising direct competitors of event sponsors.
 - 8) Curling Canada acknowledges that some teams have partnerships with competing sponsors. The fact is, there are more than 340 days in a year to praise team sponsors; Curling Canada would ask that during the event itself, please refrain from it out of respect to our partners who make the events possible.
 - 9) During the event, out of respect for the integrity of the game, players, coaches, and alternates will be prohibited from using any form of social media from 15 minutes prior to games until the completion of the game. Teams can, however, appoint someone sitting in the stands or watching on television to send messages via social media so long as there is no direct contact with the players, coach or alternate in the field of play.

Each athlete and coach is encouraged to complete a health form (particularly if there is a Covid relate condition). These forms are to be put in a sealed envelope with the person's name and the team name. These will only be opened should an emergency arise. Any sealed envelopes will be returned to the person at the end of the event.
